

Three little pigs

(Andrej Grman)

Once upon the time there lived three little pigs. They were called: Ferko, Janko and Pa'l'ko. They went around the world. First pig wanted to build a wooden house. Ferko bought 367 wooden boards. He divided house into the three parts, one part needed 108 wooden boards. How many wooden boards were remaining? The second pig was building a strawen home. Janko divided home into the four parts. For each one part he needed 205 kg of straw. Janko bought 1000 kg of straw. How much straw was remaining? Third pig Pa'l'ko did not build a house because he was lazy. One day. Wolf came to the Janko's and Ferko's houses but wolf didn't eat them. Wolf came for the third pig. But wolf did not eat Pa'l'ko because. It knew a karate. Wolf escaped to the forest. Three little pigs returned home. Pa'l'ko won a lots of competitions and he became rich. They lived until they died. The End.
