Red Hood

(Kristína Hrobárová)

Once, there was one girl called Red Hood. One day, her mother told her to go visit her grandma and to bring her the basket with cakes and pills. Basket, she gave her weighed 1,5kg, pills weighed 400g. How much did cakes weigh? Red Hood went on trail, her mother told her to. As she was walking, suddenly a wolf jumped out from bushes. Red Hood told the wolf, where her grandma lived and he immediately started running towards there. But first, he told her, to pick some flowers for her grandma. She picked 19 yellow flowers, 12 more red ones than yellow ones and 13 more white ones than yellow and red together. How many flowers did she pick? When she picked enough flowers, she continued her way to grandma. Wolf had already been there and he had eaten the grandma. When Red Hood came to house, wolf ate her too. But, the woodsman went around and he heard wolf, so he took a gun and shot him. They thanked woodsman and grandma offered them tea. Red Hood drank 0,35l, woodsman drank 0,40l and grandma drank 0,29l. There was 1210ml of tea left in a jar. How much tea was there in a jar, when grandma brought it? And that's the end of our story.
